

Architecture, High-level Design

Research the topic of "Architecture" or "High-level Design" in your alternate textbook and take notes on what you are able to discover. Of course, different authors and different texts have diverse emphases on topics and so it may be that you will have much to share or little to share on this topic.

The plan will be for me to provide some feedback on what you have written and then afterwards I plan to post the original submissions in a common place for us all to access. My hope is that in this way, we can effectively broaden our learning experience and share from each other's investigations.

Good luck,
P.M.J.
